Ministry report

Praise God for another couple of productive months. I've ministered in the USA, England and Germany as well as here on home soil in Australia. It has been exciting to again see the Holy Spirit powerfully at work, touching lives in different ways.

People have made commitments to serve the Lord; there has been a dynamic flow of prophetic ministry; many people have been physically healed and pain left bodies after prayer. In one meeting, a woman who was due to undergo major surgery on her neck received prayer. All pain left and she was totally healed. A large number of people have responded to the Word and made a decision to fully surrender to the Lordship of Jesus in their lives.

I've had the privilege of ministering with, and mentoring, leaders. It's a joy to encourage these faithful men and women of God in their ministries. The challenges are many, but as we press into greater intimacy with the Lord, spending time listening to Father, we are refreshed and strengthened in the journey. As I talk with various people, it is obvious that transition is taking place in many lives, as well as churches and ministries. If this is happening with you, we trust you will know the leading of the Holy Spirit as you position yourself for all that God has planned for you for 2016.

We have recently posted two short videos on our web site, taken from an interview John had while in England, discussing the topics of hearing God and maintaining balance in ministry. They are also available on YouTube.

We are once again heading into the Christmas season. We trust that the peace and joy, which comes from knowing Jesus Christ, will fill your hearts and lives. May this be a time of rest, refreshing and refuelling for all the exciting things that lie ahead.
